Securing Permission from Copyright Holders

Securing copyright permission may take time and we recommend seeking any needed permissions early in the thesis preparation process. Some publishers provide (on their website or in the material given to you when your article was accepted) a policy statement granting permission to publish your work in a thesis. The Sherpa Romeo website <sherpa.ac.uk/romeo/index.php?la=en> may be helpful to you in determining publishers’ policies. If you need to request permission, we suggest that you refer to, or use, the wording of the copyright Permission request sample text below. An original, signed letter on the copyright holder’s letterhead is your best protection against accusations of copyright violation, but email proof of permission from publishers or co-authors is acceptable. Keep copies of all documents for your own records.

Re: Permission to Use Copyrighted Material in a Doctoral/Master’s Thesis

Dear: I am a Claremont Graduate University graduate student completing my [Doctoral / Master’s] thesis entitled “___________”. My thesis will be available in the form of a full-text pdf on the Internet for reference, study and / or copy. Except in situations where a thesis is under embargo or restriction, the electronic version will be accessible through the Scholarship@Claremont <scholarship.claremont.edu> web pages, the Claremont Colleges Library’s web catalogue <blais.claremont.edu>, and also through web search engines. I will also be granting the Claremont Colleges Library, Claremont Graduate University, and ProQuest/UMI a non-exclusive license to reproduce, loan, distribute, and preserve copies of my thesis by any means and in any form or format.

I would like permission to allow inclusion of the following material in my thesis: [insert copy or detailed explanation including the title of the article or book, the figure or page numbers of the material used, the journal name, year, volume number or unique publication identifier, the publisher and year

For works of art indicate the title of work, date, and medium and if you are not writing to artist directly, the artist’s name]

The material will be attributed through a citation.

Please confirm in writing or by email that these arrangements meet with your approval.

Sincerely
